MAMMOTH JEWELRY AUCTION

Successful Sale Inaugurated by Mermod & Jaccard Company.

The extraordinary auction combining the entire stocks of the E. Jaccard Jewelry Company and the Merrick, Waish & Phelps Jewelry Company, together with choice selections from the magnificent collection of the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company, haugurated yesterday at Sixth and Olive streets, was crowded with eager buyers. When the mile commenced at 10.30, the space set apart for the auction was already filled. Every chair was taken, and late comers could barely make their way inside the doors, so great was the interest in the sale.

comers could barely make their way inside the doors, so great was the interest in the sale.

The reason for this keen interest was apparent. The citizens of St. Louis knew generally that these stocks contain only the best and choleest products of the world's most famous manufactories, potteries and atcliers. They knew everything would be good, the best of its kind made, and besides this knowledge there was the fact that every article was guaranteed by the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company.

Fine diamond rings, brooches, lace pins, sterling silverware, fine silver-plated wares, clocks, music boxes, watches and chains, cut glass and hand-painted Royal Vienna and Dresden vases were chiefly in demand; and while the buyers showed considerable eagerness, yet very many remarkable bargains were secured.

Nothing is reserved in this sale, which is being held for the purpose of realizing $250,000 from this $500,000 collection, and the sale is being conducted by Mermod & Jaccard's own allesmen. The sales will continute daily from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. until the sum of $250,000 is realized.

In view of the very large crowd present at the opening yesterday, it is advisable for buyers to get there early.

DOCTOR MILEN CURES NEWS FROM EAST SIDE CITIES.

CALF CREATES SCENE | MAY BE ALIVE, BUT IN RELAY DEPOT.

Waiting-Room and Collides With Waiter in Hall.

A yearling calf strayed from a herd through the passenger station and into the restaurant at the extreme end of the build-ing. Excitement reigned for fifteen minbefore the calf was finally ejected from the building. No one was injured and no damage was done.

The calf is owned by William Schultz, a drover. Yesterday morning he purchased a larger lot than usual and was driving the cattle across the tracks, when a general stampede occurred, caused by the shrill whistling of a near-by locomotive. A large yearing calf darted for the open doorway of the main waiting room of the station. Several men attempted to bar its way and one was almost knocked down. The calf several men attempted to bar its way and one was almost knocked down. The calf hesitated a moment as its front feet entered the station, then, with a beliow, it dashed inside. There were several women in the waiting-room. Peminine shrieks, the cries of men and boys and the beliowing of the frightened calf contributed to the consternation. The attention of the diners in the restaurant was attracted by the noise, and some, who were in a position to see what was going on, laughed. In a moment, however, they stopped laughing, for the calf saw in the hall leading to the restaurant a way of escape.

Edward Brown, the head waiter, was serving a party of four farmers. He was carrying a tray of dishes when the calf butted into him. The dishes slipped out of his hands and their contents were spilled over the table. Brown intered a cry of terror, looked around, and then caught the calf by the tail. The farmers assisted him, and in a few moments the animal was ejected.

Andrew Kustowski's Injuries May Cause His Denth. Cause His Death.

Andrew Kustowski, a laborer 23 years old, living in Manison, yesterday was struck by a Buff Line freight train and so badly injured that he may die.

Kustowski was walking along the rall-road tracks to Granite City, where he is employed in the rolling mill, when a train approached from the north at a rapid rate of speed. Although directly in front of him, Kustowski failed to notice the engine until it was too late to escape. He was struck and huried twenty feet, sustaining a deep wound in the head and serious bruises about the body and limbs. A brakeman, who was scatted on the pilot of the engine when Kustowski was hit, was also thrown from his position by the force of the impact, but suffered no injury.

Doctor C. R. Kiser of Madison, revived Kustowski, who was then taken to his boarding-house.

Charles Vogel, a machinist, 32 years old, while working in the boller-room of the American Car and Foundry Company, at Madison yesterday, fell from a stepladder on which he was standing to the iron floor below and suffered concussion of the brain. His conciltion was serious yesterday, and it is thought he may die.

The Venice, Madison and Granite Street Railway Company will apply to the City Council of Granite City next Monday evening for a franchiee to build a line from its northern terminus in Granite City to the corporation limits, where it will connect with the right-of-way granted by the Hoard of Supervisors of Madison County from that point to Horseshoe Lake. The company expects to have the extension in operation by June 18.

A barn belonging to Michael Noonan of Mitchell, Madison County, was burned Tuesday night, and with it a valuable horse, farm implements and a quantity of grain. The origin of the fire is not positively known, but it is supposed that tramps while passing the night in the barn dropped a lighted match in the hay. The loss is estimated at about £2,000.

CHICAGO WHEAT CLOSED EXCITED AND HIGHER.

CORN STRONG UNDER MOD-ERATE TRADE.

Oats Showed Good Advance With Heavy Trading - Provisions Steady and Higher.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Chicago, Ill., May 1.-The wheat market to-day was strong and at the close excited

Corn was strong, trade moderate, reaching 50c for May delivery. Oats showed good advance with heav trading.

Provisions were steady and higher.

Previsions were stendy and higher.

Wheat.

The wheat market ruled quite active during the first half of the session, there being less doing later in the day. The feeling prevalent was rather "builish" early, a weaker tone developing afterward, but final figures showed the May up %c and July only %c better. The stronger cables, advance in coarse grains, and the fact that deliveries on May contracts early were less deliveries on May contracts early were less than expected appeared to be the main sup-porting influences at the start. There was a good demand for May, which sold within main expected appeared to be the main supporting influences at the start. There was a good demand for May, which sold within 1/2c of the July, and this fact created a little comment. Liverpool quoted futures 3/4/21d higher, though stocks there increased during April 502,000 bu. to 2,670,000 bu., as against 2,101,000 bu. one year ago. London came unchanged to 3/4 higher. Antwerp and Buda Pesth were steady and Berlin up 1/2c. Deliveries on May contracts were about 1,000,000 bu., and with those late in the day made a total of 2,750,000 bu., baing sent out by elevator interests and taken in mainly by the shippers. At the advance considerable July came on the market, part of which was supposed to be for a prominent local professional and the demand being satisfied, prices soon yielded. The declining tendency was checked, however, by the heavy exports, which aggregated 208,000 hu. Mineapolis reported light deliveries there, only about 80,000 bu. golbg around whereas 500,000 bu. were expected. Receipts in the Northwest were 121 cars smaller than last year. The weekly weather crop bulletin generally reported the crop outlook favorable. The map showed favorable conditions and continued fair and warm weather indicated, with showers for Minnesota. St. Louis advices claimed pomplaints were coming that the weather was too dry and hot in the Southwest. Minnespolis wired situation there looked strong from a cash standpoint, Local cash demand moderate. Sales were limited.

On the cosst late in the day 15 boatloads were reported taken. Receipts at Dulth 3 cars, and at Minneapolis 471 cars, a total of 174 cars, and 35 cars last year. Included in the above was 1 car contract grade. Estimated receipts for to-morrow are 6 cars. The receipts at Western primary points were 611,165 bu., against 1.712,576 bu. last year.

July opened with sales at 73%c to 73%CMc. and closed at 7344C73%c bid.

and closed at 734g/73%c bid.

Corn.

Rather an active trade was reported in the market for mess pork, and the feeling in a general way was stronger. Offerings were not very large, and the demand was fairly active. The market opened with a little steadiness, and prices ruled 74.550 higher, but this improvement was quickly lost, Later, the demand improved considerably, while the offerings were moderate, and prices rallied 250,71%, and the advance was fairly well supported to the close.

May offerings were fair and the demand moderate, opening at 31.50 and closing quiet at $14.85. July demand was quite active and cofferings were fair, opening at 31.50 and closing duiet at $14.85. July demand was reported in the lard market. Offerings were fair and the demand was moderately active. The market opened with a little pressure to sell, and the feeling was easy, Later, there was quite a good general inquiry, mainly from shorts, and prices rallied 169.17%, and the market closed comparatively steady around outside figures. No deliveries on May contracts. May demand was light and offerings small; sold at $3.07%, and closed quiet at $3.124,55.16. July in rather good request; offerings fair; opened at $4.57% and closed ready at $8.07%.

Rather a good trade was reported in the market for ribs, and feeling was steader. Market opened a little casy, and prices rulled at $150 to 50 lower; later the feeling was stronger, with a general inquiry, and prices rallied 100121% and closed comparatively steady around outside figures.

The cash market was almost devoid of offerings. Although flax was scarce, no one wanted it bad enough to take it except at some reduction; bids for No. I were lowered ic. Futures were easier; May delivery 1920 lower, and Sept. offered at 40 decline, and the only bid was below that. It was en unusually quiet and dull market. Local movement small. Receipts were 5 cars, and there were taken out 2 cars. In Minneapolis there were good receipts, $\frac{1}{2}$ cars. Duluth got 2 cars. No. 1 and No. 1 Northwestern cash were nominally $\frac{1}{2}$. The rejected $\frac{1}{2}$. Sales were made at $\frac{1}{2}$. Sales were made at $\frac{1}{2}$. Sales were bid.

sept. was offered at $1.50; and $1.50 was bid.

Timothy was in a very neglected state. No one cared to purchase. Cash values were nominal, or nearly so, and the undertone quotably easy. The speculative market appeared to be without orders, but there was no effort made to either buy or sell for future delivery. Some very small lots soid at $2.503.80. There was a quotable range of $1593.80. There was a quotable range of $1593.80. There was a quotable range of $1593.80. There was a quotable range of $1503.80.
